

MISS CECIL LEITCH ELIMINATED FROM CHAMPIONSHIP GOLF TOURNEY

English Title-Holder Loses Out To Mrs. Letts on Last Green

Chicago Player Victor in Dramatic Wind-Up; Other Favorites Advance

tion has suffered in women's competition since 1914. Small wonder the cheerful Mrs. Letts so vociferously and so furiously.

It was figured Cecil Leitch, who twice has beaten the United States champion, Miss Alex Stirling, would meet Miss Marion Hollins, Philadelphia, in the final round. But the Chicago player was not a fluke. She has the game, as she has amply demonstrated by winning the Western women's championship last year. Mrs. Letts, who lost her title to Mrs. Melvin Jones, incidentally, was eliminated today by Mrs. Letts, of England.

Mrs. Letts Starts Poorly

Nobody figured on Mrs. Letts, who has been playing so well and so unconcernedly since the opening of the tournament. But the little Chicagoan's victory was not a fluke. She has the game, as she has amply demonstrated by winning the Western women's championship last year. Mrs. Letts, who lost her title to Mrs. Melvin Jones, incidentally, was eliminated today by Mrs. Letts, of England.

was sweeping gale that galloped over the course at a pace of sixty miles an hour, while it did not seem to bother Miss Leitch very much, was of no help whatever to the plucky Mrs. Letts. But whatever she lacks in physique is offset by her wonderful nerve and gameness.

Mrs. Letts was slightly nervous starting out. That was only natural. This, coupled with the wind, handicapped her considerably, and before she had reached the first hole she was three down. Miss Leitch played the first three holes exquisitely. By the time the fourth hole was reached Mrs. Letts had calmed her fluttering nerves and immediately settled down to play the kind of golf of which she is capable.

The remainder of this round was a bit and a piece. At the turn Mrs. Letts was two up. Mrs. Letts won the tenth hole, but lost the eleventh, so that at the thirteenth the British title holder was still two holes to the good. And two holes at this stage of the journey looked like victory to everybody but Mrs. Letts. She never let up.

Chicagoan Shows Gameness

Undoubtedly, she played on in that same serene, casual manner. Mrs. Letts, of course, was not playing up to her usual standard, but at that her game today would have been good enough to beat almost anybody else on the course. She was a very good player, and she was a very good player.

At the thirteenth Miss Leitch missed a short putt and lost the hole. She was one up. Then the excitement began. Miss Leitch got a wonderful drive on the fourteenth, and although Mrs. Letts also had a good drive here she put her second shot into the hole. Mrs. Letts could not afford to lose any more holes. She was one up. She quickly made her decision. Taking a short putt, she missed the hole. She was one up. She quickly made her decision. Taking a short putt, she missed the hole. She was one up.

Starting Mrs. Letts, after playing well the green, she missed the hole. She was one up. She quickly made her decision. Taking a short putt, she missed the hole. She was one up.

This Match on the 15th Hole

Mrs. Letts on the next hole, which numbered 15th, used a spoon, and landed on the green. She was one up. She quickly made her decision. Taking a short putt, she missed the hole. She was one up.

Arpotti K. O.'s Wartell In Amateur Tournament

The fast and furious battling in the 1921-22 amateur boxing tournament at the 2d Field Artillery Armory, Brooklyn, last night. There were several one-round knock-outs, but the best bout was that which brought together Joe Arpotti, of the Visitation Club, and Archie Wartell, of Rutgers Gym. Arpotti won by a knock-out in the fourth round, after the judges had disagreed at the end of three rounds.

The tournament will be resumed tomorrow evening at the armory, which is located at Clement and Myrtle streets.

The summaries:

110-pound class—Jack Weinstein, Rutgers, knocked out by Joe Arpotti, Visitation Club, in the first round. Judge's decision: Arpotti, 110-0.

Second Round Results In Title Golf Meet

WOMEN'S NATIONAL GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

Miss Edith Leitch, England, defeated Miss Mildred Caverly, Philadelphia, 1 up and 3 to 1.

Miss Elaine Rosenthal, Ravklo, defeated Miss Dorothy Klotz, Indian Hill, 1 up and 3 to 1.

Mrs. F. C. Letts, England, defeated Miss Cecil Leitch, England, 1 up and 3 to 1.

Miss Marion Hollins, Westport, defeated Mrs. David Gant, Memphis, 4 and 2.

Mrs. Latham Hall, England, defeated Mrs. Melvin Jones, Olympia Fields, 3 and 1.

Miss Alex Stirling, Atlanta, defeated Mrs. E. Fox, Huntington Valley, 5 and 4.

Miss Sarah Townes, Oakmont, defeated Miss Georgiana M. Bishop, Brooklawn, 2 up.

Mrs. C. H. Vanderbeck, Philadelphia Cricket Club, defeated Miss L. H. Fordyce, Yonkersville, 7 and 6.

was to the left of the green on her third shot, and her approach shot died to the hole and got a par 5. Miss Leitch was past the pin on her approach and missed a down-hill putt. For the first time since her arrival in this country she was trailing her opponent.

Miss Leitch got a wonderful par 3 on the thirteenth, getting a good drive that let her just short of the green. Mrs. Letts sliced her drive and required four shots. The match was all even again.

Both had good drives at the eighteenth. Mrs. Letts, using a spoon, did not hit her second fairly, but the ball, striking the back of a bunker to the right, rolled onto the green and up twenty yards past the pin. Miss Leitch was also past the pin by some twenty-five yards on her second. Her approach putt was eight feet past the hole. Mrs. Letts ran her up to within six feet of the hole and the hole.

After Miss Leitch had failed to get her chance the Chicagoan stepped up and clinched the issue.

The cards:

Mrs. Letts—6 8 8 8 7 5 5—49
Miss Leitch—6 8 8 8 8 8 5—48
Mrs. Letts—6 8 8 8 8 8 5—48
Miss Leitch—6 8 8 8 8 8 5—47—92

Two English Players Survive

England, however, has a fine chance for the championship as two of its representatives remain in the list. Miss Edith Leitch defeated Miss Mildred Caverly decisively, the score being 4 and 2. Edith Leitch is surprising all the critics by her victories. She has not the game some of the others have, but she is a determined sort of player and a hard fighter. Tomorrow she will meet Miss Elaine Rosenthal, the star young golfer of Chicago.

Miss Rosenthal has been playing exceptionally well in this tournament. She defeated Miss Dorothy Klotz, also of Chicago, by a score of 6 and 1.

Mrs. Letts will meet Marion Hollins tomorrow in what should be the feature match of the day. Miss Hollins, too, is playing well. Her victim today was Mrs. David Gant. Miss Hollins had no difficulty in winning by a score of 4 and 5, playing easily and scoring well.

Mrs. Letts Beats Champion

Mrs. Latham Hall, the English star, whose wonderful showing has been one of the surprises of the tournament, today defeated the Western champion, Mrs. Melvin Jones, by 5 and 3, and will meet Miss Alex Stirling tomorrow. This should be a wonderful struggle. Miss Stirling easily defeated Mrs. C. H. Vanderbeck, of Philadelphia, by 2 up and 3 to 1.

Mrs. Letts, however, was not playing up to her usual standard. She took a 48 for the outgoing round. Miss Sara Fownes, of Pittsburgh, won from Miss Georgiana Bishop, the metropolitan star and former national champion, by 1 up and 3 to 1.

Mrs. Letts has been playing well all week, with her game today, although Miss Fownes played some very fine golf.

Mrs. Letts, however, was not playing up to her usual standard. She took a 48 for the outgoing round. Miss Sara Fownes, of Pittsburgh, won from Miss Georgiana Bishop, the metropolitan star and former national champion, by 1 up and 3 to 1.

Louisville Mauls Trio of Baltimore Hurlers; Score, 16-1

International League Champions Make Miserable Showing in Big Series

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 5.—Battering a trio of pitchers for nineteen hits, Louisville, champion of the American Association, buried Baltimore, the pennant winning club of the International League, under a 16 to 1 score in the first game of the junior world's series here today.

The veteran, "Nick" Culp, a left-hander of major league fame, pitched for Louisville, and although touched for ten hits, succeeded in keeping them scattered with the exception of the first and third innings and in the ninth, when Baltimore, by bunting two hits, managed to save itself from a shutout. Gump fanned six and allowed only one base on balls.

Culp, with the exception of three innings, was never in danger, as he was given brilliant support when Baltimore threatened. The Orioles came dangerously near scoring in the first inning, when they had the bases loaded with one out as a result of a single and a pass. Sharp fielding, however, ruined their chances.

In the seventh Manager Dunn, of the Orioles, made a desperate attempt to score when he sent Styles, a pinch hitter, to bat for Horner. Styles, however, was an easy victim, rolling a grounder to Schepner.

With a shutout facing them, the Orioles started after Culp in the ninth, getting three hits. Eaves opened with a single and Bentley followed with a safe blow past short. Boley grounded to Ballinger, who caught Bentley at second. Dowd fled to Ballinger and Egan drove a single past short, scoring Holden for the international leaguers' only run.

Account, Ellis and Schepner were the batting heroes of the day, each getting a trio of hits.

Although ideal baseball weather prevailed a disappointing crowd turned out for the official attendance being 2,330 and the receipts, $4,228. Officials explained that the small attendance was due to the registration for the November election, which required 800 voters.
